OCCUPATIONS—

Summary of Classification

Classification of Occupations

Index of Occupations

INTRODUCTION.

In order to obtain accurate statistical analyses of the economic and social structure of the community, the occupied population must be classified in at least two ways, according to two distinct concepts—

- (i) The industry, trade or organized service of which each person forms a unit ;
- (ii) The individual occupation or function of the person within the industry through which his services are rendered.

The distinction between the terms "industry" and "occupation" is not always sufficiently appreciated, and frequently the terms are used as if they were synonymous. In view of the importance of a clear understanding of these terms in their relation to the classification of the population in its working capacity, it is desirable to define the sense in which they are used for statistical purposes—

Industry is defined as any single branch of productive activity, trade or service. It is concerned with the activities of persons, firms or businesses considered as a group producing the same commodity, performing the same process or providing the same service. All persons engaged in any such sphere of economic activity are classified industrially as belonging to the particular branch in question irrespective of their personal occupation within the industry. Examples : Building, Coke Manufacture, Gold Mining, Poultry-raising, Medicine.

Occupation is defined as the nature of the work which a person performs, and implies personal performance. It may be based on the material treated, the process carried out or the type of service rendered by an individual worker. Examples : Carpenter, Steward, Stoker, Moulder, Surgeon.

The distinction between the two concepts can further be sharpened by keeping in mind certain important objects in classifying the occupied population—

- (i) One of the objects of classification by industries is to show the absolute and relative importance of the various branches of industry. For that purpose a person's industrial classification is determined by reference to the business, trade, profession or service in which, or for the purposes of which, his occupation is followed. It is clear that consideration of the individual's personal occupation is not relevant, and therefore does not enter into the classification by industries ;
- (ii) The main object of classification by occupation is to secure a clearly defined appreciation of the particular functions which a person performs. For that purpose the occupational classification of the person is determined by reference either to the materials treated, the processes carried out, the nature of the personal qualifications or skill required, or, in the case of occupations not concerned with the making of material products, the type of service rendered. It is clear that the nature of the branch of productive activity in which he is engaged, and its organization into groups of firms and businesses, has no direct bearing on the occupational classification. In certain circumstances, nevertheless, a knowledge of the industry in which a person is engaged helps more clearly to define his personal occupation.

CLASSIFICATION OF INDUSTRIES

WITH

INDEX.

Explanatory Note

"C. AND I. D." AND "OTHER" TITLES

The revised industry code herein is the same as that used for the National Register, 1939, except for minor adjustments. It has been re-numbered to provide a four-figure code in which the

| | | | |
|-----------------------------------|---|---|------------|
| first figure indicates the order, | | | |
| second " | " | " | sub-order, |
| third " | " | " | group, |
| fourth " | " | " | title. |

All titles in the code are arranged in groups, all groups in sub-orders and all sub-orders in orders.

Wherever applicable, each group, sub-order and order commences with a title "C. & I. D." and concludes with a title "Other".

The "C. & I. D." title in Order 2, Industrial, does not follow the general rule of being the first title of the order. It is the first title of the group "Other Manufacture" in the sub-order "Other Factories" with the code 2890.

The title "C. & I. D." means "Composite and Inadequately Defined". Two types of industrial designation are coded to the title, viz. -

(i) "Composite", which denotes a combination of two or more titles. Where the titles belong to any one group the designation is coded to the "C. & I. D." title for that group. Where the titles belong to two or more groups within the same sub-order the designation is coded to the "C. & I. D." title for that sub-order. Where the titles belong to more than one sub-order within the same order the designation is coded to the "C. & I. D." title for that order.

(ii) "Inadequately Defined", which means that the industry is not sufficiently defined to code it to a title, but that sufficient information is given to enable it to be allocated to a group, sub-order or order. In these cases the designation is coded to the appropriate "C. & I. D." title for the group, sub-order or order which is indicated. Where no indication is given in the designation sufficiently accurate to code it to an order, it is coded to Order 9.

The title "Other" is used where the industrial designation is quite definite but where no appropriate title is provided to which it can be coded. In these cases the designation is coded to the "Other" title for the group to which it most closely corresponds (including groups which are themselves described as "Other").

A designation is only coded to a "C. & I. D." or "Other" title when it cannot reasonably be coded to an ordinary title.

A designation is only coded to Order 9 when it cannot reasonably be coded to a "C. & I. D." or "Other" title in any other order.

Industrial designations obtained from a personal census or survey will not usually be of a composite nature. Where, however, two industries are given in the designation, the designation is, insofar as it is reasonable, coded to the appropriate title for the first industry designated. Only in cases where the two industries shown are clearly of equal importance, is the designation coded to a "C. & I. D." title.

WITH

INDEX.

Introductory Note

OCCUPATION CLASSIFICATION

This classification of occupations has been prepared expressly for use in the Occupation Survey of Australia, June, 1945.

Its purposes are threefold -

- (i) to produce a purely occupational code suited for use in a Survey in which every civilian aged 14 years and over is required to state both (a) present occupation on 1st June, 1945, and (b) usual occupation in 1939;
- (ii) to provide a two figure code in respect of principal groups of occupation in order to economise machine sorting time and to facilitate detailed analysis of the principal occupational groups;
- (iii) to provide a grouping of occupations by status, e.g. professional; clerical; skilled, intermediate and unskilled manual workers: and to distinguish these from other types of occupations with special characteristics, e.g. rural; protective services; personal services (not private households) and private domestic services.

In order further to define the precise nature of certain occupations, separate headings are provided to distinguish those whose activities involve both managerial duties and pursuit of an occupation from those engaged in an occupation without managerial duties (e.g. under "Indoor Selling Activities" separate headings and code numbers distinguish "Proprietors" and "Managers" from "Salesmen or Shop Assistants"; "Proprietors" or "Managers" operating farms are distinguished from "Other farm workers"). This, however, is for clarity of definition of "occupation" and is not an exhaustive grading of occupation. Grade of occupation ("Employer", "Employee", "Unemployed", etc.) is coded entirely separately but may be tabulated to show number in each grade of occupation for each industry and for each type of occupation.

This code is based partly on the Occupation code used for the Sixteenth Census of the United States and it has been drawn up at short notice by officers of the Bureau of Census and Statistics, Canberra, after consultation with the Government Statistician of Queensland and certain of his senior officers. As indicated, it is for a special purpose, although it may become the basis of future occupational coding when its imperfections are discovered and rectified. Any such code must necessarily be arbitrary in some respects.

Code numbers and occupational headings herein are so arranged as to provide for the new grouping without precluding possibility of comparison of numbers shown under the various occupations in June, 1945, with those shown in the National Register, 1939, and Supplementary Civilian Register, 1943.
